Dr. Kimura is the newest member of the Olson Memorial Clinic internal medicine team. Dr. Kimura is a board certified internal medicine physician who is a graduate of Georgetown University School of Medicine. He has completed his postgraduate training at John Hopkins and University of California San Francisco programs. Dr. Kimura has 13 years of clinical experience in the Portland area.

Dr. Kimura became a doctor because he felt a career dedicated to caring for others would be rewarding and satisfying, noting that he chose primary care because it gives him the opportunity to establish long-term relationship with patients. " What I enjoy most about being a doctor is having a good relationship with my patients and being able to make a positive impact on their illnesses." In his practice, Dr. Kimura emphasizes the importance of listening and having compassion for his patients. " I think it is very important for physician to put themselves in their patients' position."

Dr. Kimura treasures living with his wife-Miki, daughters-Momoko, Miako and son-Gen. Away from his practice, he enjoys soccer, tennis, horseback riding and skiing which he frequently does with his family. Dr. Kimura is an avid runner who has recently ran the 2010 Boston Marathon and aspires to run it annually.

Dr. Kimura is currently accepting new patients and looking forward to serving the community. Dr. Kimura is fluent in Japanese and speaks some German. Please call his office to inquire about his services and practice profiles.
